This table harmoniously blends a symphony of oval lines, reminiscent of the human eye, with a remarkable solidity that effortlessly accommodates even the most generously sized tabletops.
The appeal of the Eye table lies not only in its form but also in its substance. The legs, strategically placed at the corners of the table, not only provide essential structural support but also show exceptional aesthetic sensibility. The legs are entirely enveloped in wood, seamlessly blending with the metal interior and creating a captivating game of luminous reflections, infusing the table with an unparalleled radiance and a profound sense of dimension.

The Eye table fits perfectly into any residential or commercial environment, thanks to its versatility in size and configurations, whether square or rectangular. The perfect balance between materials, solid geometric structure, and remarkable design ability in balancing weights turns it into an unmatched masterpiece, capable of captivating and enchanting even the most discerning design enthusiasts.
Giuseppe Viganò has breathed new life into the style of the '70s, creating a table that effortlessly captures the hearts of those who admire designer furniture and appreciate timeless beauty.
